RESTART 2016: LCC's Success Highlighted

RESTART attracted many people with various backgrounds, interests, and goals in life. The objective of the festival was to attract this variety and share knowledge with every curious mind seeking to learn something new. Lifelong learning is the basis of liberal arts education and being the organizer of the RESTART festival gave LCC International University a perfect opportunity to demonstrate why this model is so effective. The festival surely had many fun activities, but most importantly it was an educational experience for Klaipeda residents as well as LCC students, faculty, and staff.

The Art of Giving Celebrated by LCC

The social campaign was presented by one of the organizers, LCC psychological counselor Ina Kamaitytė: "In Klaipėda during the past year 71 people died because of suicide. 81.1 % of them were men." In Lithuania, suicide holds second place for causes of death among men. "Apathy and isolation are the main causes of suicide. When people suffer they prefer to keep it to themselves. It is very important to learn how to express your feelings," added another LCC representative, Emas Gričius.

On Friday, December 2, LCC International University started the Christmas season celebration by inviting Klaipėda residents as well as LCC community members to the charity event 'At the Christmas Eve Table'. Philanthropy, an integral part of LCC International University, has been driving the success of LCC for 25 years. 'At the Christmas Eve Table' is yet another example of what the LCC community values most. When unconditional giving becomes a driving force, positive change becomes inevitable.

Tatjana Pomogajeva | Hard Work Really Pays off

For three years I worked at Swedbank until I went on maternity leave. As a mom I really wanted to do something special for my daughter. At that time cake decorating became a trendy thing and I decided to try it as well. With the help of the Internet I developed my decorating skills and then I decided to complete a course in England. While completing this course I realized that I didn't just enjoy decorating; I also liked the social aspect of workshop training. It is such a fun way to spend time together while also expressing your creativity!

Inga Urbonaitė | All Klaipėda Residents Could Become LCC Students for a Week

We are an international community with both faculty and students coming from over 30 different countries, and so we had a chance to share with the Klaipėda community who we really are, the quality of our education, and the talents of our students. LCC is a transformative space; we have unique values to share, as we are a liberal arts university. Such an environment is common for us in the LCC community, but for the others it is also something they can get inspiration from.
